

2024 Australian School Library Survey Report

Based on the Australian responses to the 2024
Softlink School Library Survey.

Background and objective

Conducted by Softlink on behalf of the school library sector each year since 2010, the School Library Report examines key trends and topics impacting library staff and services. The 2024 report provides survey findings from a comprehensive range of schools, including Australian Government, Independent or Private, and Catholic Education schools. The data and analysis collected encompass various aspects such as school library budgets, staffing, the availability of digital resources, and other pertinent trends shaping school library services. The results help to advocate the role of school libraries and library professionals to education decision makers, as well as through industry associations and networks.

1.0 Introduction

1.1 Purpose of the survey

For over a decade, Softlink has proudly conducted the annual Australian School Library Survey, gathering valuable insights into the state of school libraries across the country. This report serves as a critical resource for library staff, educators, and decision-makers, providing data that helps advocate for ongoing investment in school libraries and highlight their essential role in student learning and engagement.

Since the survey's inception in 2010, school libraries have had to adapt to significant shifts—from rapid advancements in technology and digital literacy requirements to changes in school funding and staffing structures. The 2024 survey results reflect both the resilience and challenges facing school libraries today, revealing how they continue to evolve as hubs for literacy, research, collaboration, and digital learning, even amid budget and staffing constraints.

This year's survey explores several critical focus areas shaping the future of school libraries:

- Budgets & Staffing Pressures – Over half (51%) of respondents feel their library budget is insufficient, and 52% believe their staffing levels are inadequate. These concerns underscore ongoing resource limitations that affect the ability to deliver comprehensive library services.
- Library Spaces & Student Engagement – A majority (70%) of libraries operate in dedicated spaces, and student engagement remains strong, with 56% of respondents reporting high to very high levels of student interaction.
- Diversifying Library Collections – Many school libraries are actively working to ensure their collections reflect diverse backgrounds, cultures, and experiences, helping students see themselves represented and access a broad range of perspectives.
- Technology & AI in Libraries – While AI adoption remains in its early stages, some school libraries are beginning to explore its potential, while also ensuring students understand its capabilities and limitations. Libraries play a key role in helping students critically assess AI-generated information, use it responsibly, and integrate it alongside traditional research methods.

The findings from the 2024 Australian School Library Survey reinforce the critical role that school libraries play in student literacy, research skills, and digital fluency. However, they also highlight the ongoing need for advocacy, particularly around funding, staffing, and recognition of the library's contribution to student success.

Softlink remains committed to supporting school libraries, library staff, and the broader education community by providing this annual report as a tool for awareness, advocacy, and action.

We extend our sincere thanks to all the school library professionals who contributed to this year's survey. Your insights help build a stronger case for investment in school libraries, ensuring they remain accessible, innovative, and inspiring learning spaces for students now and into the future.

1.2 The 'Typical' Australian School Library in 2024

In 2024, school libraries continue to be bustling, multi-functional spaces that serve as the heart of student learning, research, and creativity. From the moment the doors open, the library welcomes a diverse mix of students - some eager to borrow their next favourite book, others searching for a quiet place to study, collaborate, or simply take a break from the busy school environment.

Throughout the day, library staff take on a variety of roles, far beyond managing collections. They curate diverse and inclusive resources, ensuring students see themselves reflected in the books they read while also broadening their worldviews. Many school libraries run scheduled lessons, teaching students research skills, digital literacy, and critical thinking, while also providing one-on-one support to help them navigate everything from academic databases to credible online sources.

Technology continues to play an increasing role in modern school libraries. While print books remain at the heart of collections, many libraries are embracing eBooks and subscription databases to enhance student learning. Some libraries are exploring AI to understand its capabilities and limitations, while others are focusing on teaching digital literacy skills to help students evaluate information critically in an AI-driven world.

Beyond academic support, school libraries offer a welcoming space for students to connect, create, and collaborate. Whether it's students gathering to work on group projects, taking part in book clubs and reading challenges, or simply finding a comfortable space to relax, the library remains a trusted and inclusive environment for all.

Despite ongoing challenges - such as budget constraints and staffing shortages - school library professionals continue to advocate for their role in student learning and wellbeing. Their commitment ensures that, regardless of limitations, libraries remain engaging, supportive, and essential spaces where students can explore, discover, and grow.

14.0 Feedback themes

The 2024 survey provided participants with an opportunity to express their thoughts and insights through open-ended questions, allowing them to comment and share their perspectives on the dynamics of working within a school library environment. To ensure the continual relevance of our survey, we will integrate a new question each year, focusing on relevant issues pertinent to school libraries. This practice ensures that our survey remains aligned with the current trends and concerns within the field.

In 2024, the open-ended questions posed were as follows:

- What is the one thing you would change about your school library or your role?
- What is the best thing about working in a school library?
- How are you incorporating AI in your school library?
- What are some strategies you have implemented or are considering to diversify your school library collection to better reflect the diverse backgrounds, cultures, and experiences of your students?

Responses to these questions will be explored in feature documents that will be published throughout the year.
